

Contents

List of Figures and Tables

Preface

Introduction: Theories of Conflict in Citizenship Education
Hanan A. Alexander, Halleli Pinson, and Yossi Yonah

Part I Conflict Theories in Citizenship Education

The Emergence of Citizenship as a Political Problem in an Era of Globalization
Seyla Benhabib

Becoming a Critical Citizen: A Marxist-Humanist Critique
Juha Suoranta, Peter McLaren, and Nathalia Jaramillo

Education, Power, and the State: Dilemmas of Citizenship in Multicultural Societies
Carlos Alberto Torres

Addressing Gender Conflict, Sexuality, and Violence: Feminist Perspectives on the Challenges Faced by Global Citizenship Education
Madeleine Arnot

Teaching about Conflict through Citizenship Education
Lynn Davies

Tolerance, Education, and Parental Rights
Walter Feinberg

Part II Citizenship Education in a Democratic and Jewish State

Reconsidering Zionism: Open Society, Critical Theory, and the Education of Citizens
Hanan A. Alexander

Democracy, Educational Autonomy, and Israeli Law: The Case of the Ultra-Orthodox Minority
Yossi Dahan and Yoav Hammer

The Consolidation of Civic Identity in a Particularistic Religious Setting
Zehavit Gross

Bargaining over Citizenship: Pre-Military Preparatory Activities in the Service of the Dominant Groups
Noa Harel and Edna Lomsky-Feder

Adverse Aspects of Citizenship Education in the Global Era: The Israeli Case
Yossi Yonah

Civic Education for the Palestinians in Israel: Dilemmas and Challenges
Ayman K. Agbaria

One Civic Curriculum, Different Civic Visions
Halleli Pinson

Conclusion: Transforming Social Conflict — The Burdens and Dilemmas of Citizenship Education in Israel
Hanan A. Alexander, Yossi Yonah, and Halleli Pinson

References

Contributors

Index